The PUTSCH and the PURGE

There is no question that the presidential election of 2020 was stolen from the people and given to Joe Biden, a demented, corrupt traitor who takes bribes from foreigners. As has been revealed over the course of the last two months, there is overwhelming evidence of election procedures carried out by State officials in defiance of State election laws, and in defiance of federal law, too. There is extensive evidence of flipped votes from Trump to Biden, and of Trump votes deleted electronically. There is evidence of the “adjudication” voting software of Dominion, in conjunction with deliberately misprinted ballots, allowing election personnel to decide in secret, without any log kept, hundreds of thousands of votes to have been cast for Biden. Voting numbers in excess of the number of registered voters, dead people voting, illegal aliens voting — in other words, the run-of-the-mill types of election frauds — also combined to exceed the margin of Biden “victory” in the six swing states (see chart, p.2). In short, in every way possible, the election was stolen by the elite globalists.

Part I The Putsch

INSURRECTION, noun [Latin insurgo; in and surgo, to rise.] A rising against civil or political authority; the open and active opposition of a number of persons to the execution of a law in a city or state. It is equivalent to sedition, except that sedition expresses a less extensive rising of citizens. It differs from rebellion, for the latter expresses a revolt, or an attempt to overthrow the government, to establish a different one or to place the country under another jurisdiction. ... Insurrection is however used with such latitude as to comprehend either sedition or rebellion.

A “putsch” (pronounced puhch) is “a coup; an illegal effort to forcibly overthrow the current government,” according to the American Heritage Dictionary, 5th Ed. The election fraud which occurred on November 3, 2020 and the weeks following were just the beginning of the putsch now happening in America. This putsch has captured the legislative and judicial branches of our government. Constitutionally speaking, only one branch of government is left to stop it — the executive.

Judicial branch is complicit

There is also no question that the courts, both State and federal, unjustly dismissed complaints of election fraud, regardless of whether the president, electors, citizens, or entire groups of States sued. No one who files any election fraud complaint, it seems, has standing. Or has “proven” their case of fraud before being allowed discovery and a trial, or ... well, name the reason for evading the issue, and the courts have given it! If the courts did not dismiss outright, they have stalled all proceedings until after the inauguration of the imposter. In Georgia, despite laws requiring suits regarding elections to be expeditiously handled, the court system would not even assign a judge to a suit brought by attorney Sidney Powell. The judicial branch has failed.

State and federal legislative branches are complicit

There is also no question that the State legislatures, while holding hearings into some of the

In 2012, Ben Garrison accurately depicted the uniparty cabal under which Americans suffer. This tyranny has been seen more clearly by many Americans in the present day because of President Trump’s refusal to concede a stolen election. Source: <https://grrrgraphics.com/march-of-tyranny/> election fraud (Michigan, Arizona, Georgia, for example), did not convene their legislatures to decertify the presidential election results, as is their duty under the Constitution. Instead, individual State legislators banded together to send letters to Congress requesting that they have more time to investigate and decertify their electors. Vice President Pence ignored those letters, and ignored the dual slates of electors sent from seven States, despite his responsibility to open and count only legal electoral votes. Of course, Pence is well aware of the extensive election fraud, but refused to uphold the Constitution and his oath of office.

During the counting of the electoral votes on January 6, only Arizona (supported by Sen. Ted Cruz) and Pennsylvania (supported by Sen. Josh Hawley) were “debated” by the House and Senate. Although representatives had signed objections to Georgia, Nevada, and Michigan as well, no senator would sign those objections, and so they did not receive consideration. Sen. Loeffler, who had pledged before the Georgia run-off election to sign an objection to the Georgia electors, reneged on her promise, even after losing her own runoff election to evident fraud! And even though thirteen Senators had stated publicly before January 6 that they would not support the electoral votes for Arizona and Pennsylvania, half reneged on their promises as well. In the end, the Senate voted 93-6 to reject the Arizona objection, and 92-7 to reject the Pennsylvania objection.

YES, TRUMP WON. Not counting the fraud, the documented votes lost to irregularities and illegalities in the 2020 election all outweigh Biden’s “margin of victory.” Source: <https://navarreport.com/> (Volume III).

In the House, only 121 representatives voted for the Arizona objection, and just 138 voted for the Pennsylvania objection. Repeatedly, the senators and representatives who repudiated their own pledges to object did so by citing alleged violence of the so-called mob that had just that day “stormed” the Capitol building and allegedly caused the joint session of Congress to adjourn (and conveniently reconvene later the same day, seemingly with changed hearts).

As traitor Loeffler put it: “When I arrived in Washington this morning, I fully intended to object to the certification of the electoral votes. However, the events that have transpired today have forced me to reconsider and I cannot now, in good conscience, object. ... The violence, the lawlessness and siege of the halls of Congress are abhorrent and stand as a direct attack on the very institution my objection was intended to protect: the sanctity of the American democratic process.” So, because other people allegedly attacked the sanctity of American institutions, Loeffler cannot uphold the sanctity of those institutions herself by ensuring only legal electoral votes are counted. At face value, then, the alleged “attack” on the “sacred” halls of Congress convinced legislators to abandon their oaths rather than uphold them! It appears more likely that the false-flag “attack” on the Capitol that day (see story, this page) provided cover for many traitors in Congress to evade their responsibility to uphold the Constitution by seeing to it that only legal votes are counted.

There is only one remaining Constitutional solution to the putsch. It requires the action of the executive branch, that is, the President, acting as Commander in Chief, and his authority to suppress insurrections as provided for by the laws passed by Congress.

FALSE FLAG OVER WASHINGTON

On January 6, 2020, over one million supporters of Trump gathered from all over the United States in Washington, D.C. to “Stop the Steal” of the election and show Congress they support the truly elected president. The vast majority of these supporters gathered first in the area between the Washington monument and the Ellipse in front of the White House (photo above shows a tiny sliver of this immense, peaceful crowd). The crowd waited to hear Trump speak, and he began speaking at approximately 12 p.m. His speech continued until approximately 1:10 p.m, at which time he encouraged his supporters to walk to the Capitol building. In his speech, Trump outlined the many illegalities of the stolen election in the six swing states (which he won if only legal votes were counted). He told the crowd that Pence has a constitutional duty and obligation not to count electoral votes which he is on notice are illegally obtained. After the speech, the crowd peacefully walked to the Capitol building to stand outside as witnesses to the proceedings. Many hoped that the mere presence of so many ordinary Americans would cause the people’s representatives to take note and reconsider the unconstitutional acts they were about to undertake in counting electoral votes which were illegally certified.

But the enemies of the republic and the people had another plan for the day. Agent provocateurs (whether funded through Antifa, BLM, the FBI, other three letter agencies, foreigners, or all of the above), descended on the Capitol building and entered it, damaging some property (primarily window panes, perhaps some office furniture), and wandering about the building. Some frustrated Trump supporters were undoubtedly mixed among them, but the instigators and leaders of this “mob” have already been identified as persons who are not Trump supporters.

The incursion into the building where Congress was holding a joint session to count electoral votes gave the U.S. legislators a reason to suspend the count, evacuate the building to return just hours later, and an excuse to decry Trump supporters as rioters and insurrectionists.

There is so much evidence that a false flag was conducted to demonize the half of the American people who voted for Trump that reams could be written at this point, only a week and a half from the event. Below are pictures of just two well-known instigators, already identified as provocateurs.

On the strength of this false flag, Trump supporters and constitutionalists have been deemed by the enemies of the republic as “domestic terrorists,” and the purge of Biden dissenters is now beginning.

Two widely identified agents of the chaos on January 6, Jake Angeli and John Sullivan, appear to have unlimited funds to travel to numerous protests and riots for Antifa, BLM, and climate change. Many other readily identifiable people, including Ashli Babbitt, the allegedly murdered Trump supporter, also appear to be part of the false flag event.

The putsch is an insurrection

Article I, Section 8, Clause 15 of the Constitution states: [The Congress shall have Power . . .] To provide for calling forth the Militia to execute the Laws of the Union, suppress Insurrections and repel Invasions; . . .

An insurrection, as defined by Webster's 1828 dictionary, is a "rising against civil or political authority; the open and active opposition of a number of persons to the executive of a law in a city or state." It comprehends both sedition or rebellion. The putsch now underway, which will be completed when the usurper Biden is inaugurated, is clearly just such an active opposition, on the part of many government officials at every level, to the Constitution of the States united.

In 1792, Congress provided for the calling forth of the militia to suppress insurrections which included a judicial certification requirement when insurrections involved obstructions of federal law. Under that law, the President had to obtain from a federal district judge or an associate justice of the U.S. Supreme Court a certification that the laws of the United States were being obstructed "by combinations too powerful to be suppressed by the ordinary course of judicial proceedings."

In 1795, Congress removed this requirement from the law, but still imposed a 30-day time limit on calling forth the militia when Congress was in session. The 1795 statute was held to be constitutional by the Supreme Court. See, e.g., Martin v. Mott, 25 U.S. 19, 32 (1827). This act has been revised several times, and currently, the power to use the militia and armed forces to enforce federal authority is found at 10 U.S.C. § 252:

Whenever the President considers that unlawful obstructions, combinations, or assemblages, or rebellion against the authority of the United States, make it impracticable to enforce the laws of the United States in any State by the ordinary course of judicial proceedings, he may call into Federal service such of the militia of any State, and use such of the armed forces, as he considers necessary to enforce those laws or to suppress the rebellion.

Similarly, 10 U.S.C. § 253 states that the President: ... shall take such measures as he considers necessary to suppress, in a State, any insurrection, ... unlawful combination, or conspiracy, if it ... so hinders the execution of the laws of the State, and of the United States within the State, that any part or class of its people is deprived of a right, privilege, immunity, or protection named in the Constitution and secured by law, and the constituted authorities of that State are unable, fail, or refuse to protect that right, privilege or immunity ..."

Only the President is left

Thus, where the putsch has been successful in overturning the election for president, and where all the constituted authorities have failed to protect the people against the putsch, it remains solely and squarely the responsibility of the president of the United States to ensure that our form of government is preserved, and the people's rights and privileges safeguarded. Accordingly, if Trump does not call out the militia and suppress the insurrection — actually a widespread conspiracy apparently involving foreign interference in the election as well — he too will violate his oath to uphold and defend the Constitution of the United States. To date, there is no real sign that Trump will do this. Under 10 U.S.C. § 254, the president is required to first "by proclamation, immediately order the insurgents to disperse and retire peaceably to their abodes within a limited time." No such proclamation has been publicly issued, but how would such a proclamation be applicable when the insurrection and violence consists of an organized theft already accomplished?

In the next issue, we will turn to the inevitable action which follows any putsch: the purge of all those who defy the putsch.
