Attorney files Criminal Complaint against I.R.S.-C.I.D. agents!

Shreveport, LA — on December 18, Attorney Tommy Cryer filed a criminal complaint with the U.S. Attorney's office, requesting that four agents from the Criminal Investigative Division of the IRS be investigated and prosecuted for violating 26 U.S. C. § 7213, and requesting an investigation into perjury to the Grand Jury.

It is highly unlikely, for obvious reasons, that this complaint will be the subject of a news release from the IRS or the DOJ, or even picked up by any news media, so we have reproduced the pertinent contents of Attorney Cryer's letter to the U.S. Attorney for your consideration.

RE: Criminal Complaint Jimmy H. Sandefur et al.

Dear Mr. Campbell:

I recognize that your position, just as any other, requires that you perform duties that you do not relish. And I realize that the subject matter of this correspondence and its enclosures presents one of those occasions. However, I also realize that you and I, both sworn to uphold the law, have no right to pick and choose which laws we will honor and which we will neglect.

You are, no doubt, going to be subjected to pressures to ignore that duty in the instant, but your oath was not directed to those that will be exerting that pressure. No matter what the consequences, you must keep that obligation as sacred as the One to whom you made it. As you well know, I have sacrificed much and risked all in order to fulfill my like obligation, so I am neither expecting nor demanding any more of you than I do of myself. It may be helpful to recall the words of Justice Brandeis in Olmstead v. United States, 277 U.S. 438, 485 (1928):

"Decency, security and liberty alike demand that government officials shall be subjected to the same rules of conduct that are commands to the citizen. In a government of laws, existence of the government will be imperilled if it fails to observe the law scrupulously. Our Government is the potent, the omnipresent teacher. For good or for ill, it teaches the whole people by its example. Crime is contagious. If the Government becomes a lawbreaker, it breeds contempt for law; it invites every man to become a law unto himself; it invites anarchy. To declare that in the administration of the criminal law the end justifies the means — to declare that the Government may commit crimes in order to secure the conviction of a private criminal — would bring terrible retribution. Against that pernicious doctrine this Court should resolutely set its face."

These words become piercing when, as in my case, the government commits crimes in order to attempt to secure the conviction of an innocent citizen.

Criminal Complaint

Please accept the enclosed document as my formal criminal complaint against Special Agent Jimmy H. Sandefur, Special Agent Darrin A. Heusel, Special Agent Jude Armand and Special Agent Student Trainee Patrick Potter for numerous felony violations of 26 U.S.C. 7213, which statute provides in pertinent part:

26 U.S.C. § 7213. Unauthorized Disclosure of Information.

(a) Returns and return information

(1) Federal employees and other persons

It shall be unlawful for any officer or employee of the United States or any person described in section 6103(n) (or an officer or employee of any such person), or any former officer or employee, willfully to disclose to any person, except as authorized in this title, any return or return information (as defined in section 6103(b)). Any violation of this paragraph shall be a felony punishable upon conviction by a fine in any amount not exceeding $5,000, or imprisonment of not more than 5 years, or both, together with the costs of prosecution, and if such offense is committed by any officer or employee of the United States, he shall, in addition to any other punishment, be dismissed from office or discharged from employment upon conviction for such offense.

The numerous commissions of this felony crime are specifically enumerated in the attached complaint and supported by the exhibits thereto consisting of the respective perpetrators' own written confessions in the form of memoranda of interviews and correspondence evincing these felony violations per se. Your attention is directed to, in particular, Barrett v. U.S., 51 F.3d 475 (5th Cir. 1995) and Gandy v. U.S., 234 F.3d 281 (5th Cir. 2000).

Violations of Grand Jury Secrecy

In addition to the criminal complaint please accept this letter as my formal request, insistence, on your initiation of contempt proceedings against Special Agent Sandefur for the 18 (known) and Special Agent Heusel for the one (known) violations of Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 6 in their gratuitous and totally improper and unlawful disclosure of Grand Jury proceedings, all equally well documented and established by their own written confessions and correspondence.

Although I have every right to initiate such a proceeding (See In Re Grand Jury Investigation, 610 F.2d 202 (5th Cir. 1980)) out of respect for you and your office I want to first afford you an opportunity to present these violations to the Court. I would consider my doing so prior to affording you that opportunity to be an unnecessary and unwarranted embarrassment to your office, incorrectly suggesting a lack of confidence in your willingness or ability to recognize the same and take appropriate action.

Request for Investigation and Prosecution of Perjury Charge

Finally, I hereby make formal request that you investigate the apparent commission of perjury in testimony before the Grand Jury and initiate appropriate prosecution therefor. As you are aware the Grand Jury was falsely informed through testimony by someone that I had concealed income in the two brokerage accounts belonging to a trust I had established to protect my then disabled, now deceased, wife from her nefarious son. You are also aware that there was no income in either account during either subject year. That false testimony was the basis for the evasion charges returned by the Grand Jury, which charges proved warrantless and false as evinced by your election to drop those charges on the morning of the trial.

Since you were personally involved in that Grand Jury proceeding you, as well as the Grand Jury, our entire criminal justice system and, most directly, I are all victims of that crime. You do know who testified falsely to that body and I respectfully demand that you take appropriate action.

With kindest personal regards, I remain,
Respectfully yours, Tommy K. Cryer

ARE YOU CONTROLLED?

An editorial by Dick Greb

“None are so hopelessly enslaved as those who falsely believe they are free.” —Johann Wolfgang von Goethe. This truism isn’t just an observation; it’s the major ingredient in the recipe for slavery. To institutionalize an oppressive tyranny, the tyrant must control what people think and believe. Once a people accept their slavery as “freedom,” their slavery will no longer trigger their innate desire to be free. At least, the hope of controllers is that the vast majority of the population can be conditioned that way.

It must be recognized that thought control is just another aspect in the science of control. Methods are studied and refined to the most efficient means of influencing the opinions, habits, and actions of the greatest number of people. To a totalitarian, time and money spent to research mechanisms of control pays off in the long run.

For long-range globalist planners, intelligent and self-reliant citizens are not exactly an asset. To change citizens into sheep, propaganda might be supplemented by promoting chemicals to impair health and mental ability. The educational process may be subverted to undermine the advance of knowledge and destroy any love for learning. Eventually, all progress of knowledge may be channeled into fields which further governmental control, such as surveillance and technology like TASERS, sound cannons, and weather modification. Otherwise, useless trivial pursuits may be encouraged to occupy people’s attention. All of these methods help make the populace less inclined to resist oppression.

Handling the pressure. But alas, there are always malcontents. For subversive freedom lovers who refuse to acquiesce in slavery, the Matrix movie trilogy and Ira Levin’s “This Perfect Day” demonstrate how prudent social planners leave some avenues of release for the hostility that naturally results from oppression. These pressure-relief valves route the forces of social eruption into safe — i.e., controlled — channels of action. Indeed, any totalitarian system would likely be destroyed if not for a proper relief mechanism. A good illustration, perhaps, is a pressure cooker — without a regulator to control the escape of the steam, it would explode in short order.

It would be a mistake to think those in power have given no attention to controlling the channels by which political and social dissatisfaction can be expressed. For example, consider the “protest areas” set up for those picketing IMF or WTO meetings: blocks away from the very people intended to receive the protesters’ messages. Protesting closer to the meeting usually leads to dealing with riot or SWAT police. This scenario involves at least a two-fold approach to control.

First, the more moderate elements of the opposition can release some of the pressure built up in them by participating in a protest rally, albeit one deprived of relevance by the lack of exposure to the people they are protesting. This controlled release reduces pent-up energy below the critical mass necessary to spur people to action. In so doing, it also reinforces this ineffective strategy in protestors’ minds as a model for their future actions.

The protester who fails to recognize that his “protest” is really a defeat, because those he wanted to influence haven’t even seen him, is like a slave who thinks he’s free. His ineffective “protest” still satisfies his desire to “do something,” and so he continues on the same course, even if ineffective or detrimental to his cause. As a result, his resources are kept from more productive channels.

Chipping away at the margins. Meanwhile, more radical protestors, recognizing the uselessness of “protest areas,” ignore such restrictions to deliver their message despite the likelihood of an encounter with “policemen” armed like soldiers (if not actual soldiers). Unfortunately, any resulting criminal charges, prosecution, and possible conviction for real or imagined infractions is a convenient way for government, yet again, to marginalize them and their cause.

Such protestors are now channeled into a different type of protest, defending themselves against government officials, which diverts resources from their original purpose; in this example, protesting the actions of predatory global financial institutions. Money, time, energy and ideas are diverted into combating the erosion of the rights to assemble and speak freely. The extra burden of this expense drives potential participants and even less-committed present participants away from the cause. This criminalization of those least willing to compromise (i.e., the most fervently committed) drives a wedge between them and their supporters, most of whom belong to the more moderate, “safer” center. This time-tested divide and conquer tactic is effective because people forget that once the “extremists” — who are just the 5 or 10 percent of the cause furthest from the center — are disposed of, those who were previously just to the center of them become the new “extremists,” ready for the next round of divide and conquer. Moreover, since this process must always result in the centralization of thought, an extra advantage to enslavers is that each successive round of extremists is less extreme, and less inclined to resist, than the one before.

What a waste! A key element of these control mechanisms is the wasting of resources. Every dollar the government can force you to spend defending against trumped-up charges, or on fines and penalties, or chasing down rabbit trails after false theories, is another dollar diverted from the cause of truth and liberty. A government which cares as little about truth or liberty as ours may even have an incentive to encourage the wasteful application of resources by promoting false, even dangerous, theories. Prudence dictates that one should always be vigilant in scrutinizing new theories, recognizing that these types of control mechanisms exist. Of course, it would be foolish to believe that government is responsible for the introduction of all wild theories circulating through the patriot community. Misguided, even well-meaning people have invented a fantastic array of theories to explain the critical condition of our liberty today.

Worse, there are unscrupulous people willing to take advantage of anyone they can by promoting anything that will facilitate the transfer of dollars from the latter to the former. Be on constant guard against all such diversions.

LWRN, the anti-control device. With Liberty Works Radio Network on the air, we can start chipping back at the media monopoly that keeps people in the dark about so much of what is going on: the North American Union of the U.S. with Canada and Mexico through the illegal Security and Prosperity Partnership; Radio Frequency Identification tags imbedded into virtually every product, and eventually (the one-worlders hope) into every one of us; the known dangers of fluoridation of water supplies as well as the uncharted dangers from genetically altered organisms in our food supply.
